

Potential Strategies to Support Holistic Advising

Professional advising center for students prior to declaring a major

- The advising center would be a way to better coordinate the early needs of students with regard to orientation, campus engagement, early career preparation
- Advisors would work with incoming first years and transfer students to best support their early academic needs and support students in establishing their goals

challenges

- ⊕ Partial credit courses would leverage the expertise across campus to directly academic potential (e.g. managing stress, conflict resolution techniques, public speaking, professional habits et al.)

Mapped opportunities

the college

- Increasing the early and continuing opportunities on and off campus for students to challenge themselves (e.g. community work study jobs, campus leadership jobs, funding to present research at conferences etc.)

overall outcomes and reflect the developmental nature of the model. For

1. Who am I